Sky Acres Airport is a public access airport located in Lagrangeville, New York, on a 145-acre hilltop in southeastern New York's picturesque Dutchess County. This privately-owned airport services the nearby towns of Union Vale and Poughkeepsie, New York. Its prime location, between the Hudson River and the New York/Connecticut border, makes it an ideal landing site and stopover for travelers visiting the Hudson Valley and New England areas. Sky Acres also operates as a reliever airport for Westchester County Airport. If you're looking for airports near Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Sky Acres is an excellent choice. All aviators are welcome.
